CEO. STOUT MAKES EAT-

man in the red mill. The article is as follows:

"Three inspections of places serving food were made this morning and three orders issued for cleanups. Unless the places are put in a clean and sanitary condition before re-inspection after 10 days, prosecutions will be inaugurated by the state food and dairy department.

"This is a summary of themorning's work of Inspectors Geo. Stout and Geo. Johnson of the state food and dairy department.

"The first three places to be visited in the city and subsequently receiving the order to clean up were the Hotel Downey, Little Hudson Cafe and Hans Machus bakery and restaurant. Inspections are being continued this afternoon.

"The restaurants in Lansing are in bad condition if the places we were in the morning are taken as an indication,' said Inspector George Stout. The places ranged from one of the leading hotels to one of the smaller lunch rooms. Conditions were bad, very bad. If sickness is to be prevented and food made safe, there must be a clean up.

"'Cleanliness,' to the inspectors of the state department leaves no shade of its full meaning in doubt. Except in a few points, the three places visited this morning were clean to the first glance. 'But microbes don't pick the 'easily-clean places as their hiding places,' said Mr. Steut. 'They get in the wide, dirt-filled cracks in the floors and tables, in the jagged holes left by the knife on the meat blocks, back of the ranges and under the sinks and in the corners.'

"These were the places he went after in his inspections. Dirt was caked deep in the inaccessible places. Running a pencil along the crack or a mopboard or in the corners under sinks, great layers of dirt and grease were forced out. 'Bad, bad,' the inspectors would murmur and make notes on official looking pads."

The Kids Had a Good Time.

A. M. Simmons took his carrier boys to Grand Rapids Tuesday morning at about 5 o'clock for the Press boys' annual outing at Reed's lake. Efeven of the boys went along with Mr. Simmons and the trip was made with Alfred Moore's big truck which made it so the boys were not cramped for room in riding and they had a good time going down, at the lake while they were there and a good time on the way home.

"Pat" Has Moved.

A force of men were engaged and let us say busily engaged Saturday evening transferring the stock of H. Patterson from the old location in the Holmes building on West Main street where it has been for so many years, to the new and more commodious quarters next to the Celrite grocery store. It seemed to hear the truck shooting back and forth loaded down with Pat's big stock that Main street had been converted into a part of the loop district in Chicago and the way the helpers wrestled merchandise around added further to strengthening conclusions along that line. So after a busy week of sales and moving, Pat and his genial store force are in the new location ready to wait on you.

in some paper in the county, a detailed financial statement of the district prior to the first day of August each year. The penalty for officers failing to do so is either a fine, jail sentence, or both. Some of our district school officers in this territory are seemingly neglecting this and may be sorry later on that they failed to publish a statement as required by law.

LeRey J. Buttolph, a member of the faculty of Kalamazoo college, has resigned his position and gone to Worcester, Mass., where he will do research work for the government in the laboratory at Clarke university. Mr. Buttolph will do special work with reference to war problems connected with gas defense. He has been made gas chemist with the Bureau of Mines and assigned for work at Clarke university laboratory. A graduate of Kalamazoo college in 1913, Mr. Buttolph took his Master of Science degree in 1916. He has for some t me been a member of the faculty serving as assistant professor of physics.
